Da Pietro

Welcome to the Da Pietro - the first Italian restaurant in Krakow. The year 2012 is a special date for us - we celebrate the 20 - year anniversary (and the longevity of the restaurant is a sign of enduring quality of service).

Our secret is the combination of proven traditions and recognized standards of Italian cuisine with fresh, innovative look.

Excellent addition to our menu is carefully selected, one of the richest wine list (wines from all 20 regions of Italy! And the Polish and the World), a wide selection of spirits and not only Italian, and precision sheet composed of drinks, in which everyone will find something for everyone.

Tasteful, spacious interiors decorated with unique tapestries. Piagnesi make each visit to Da Pietro is not only a culinary journey and a feast for body and spirit.

The ideal location and professional, always smiling and discreet service make the restaurant an indispensable place for lunch with friends, family dinner, business meeting or romantic dinner for two.

Chłopskie Jadło

Chłopskie Jadło is basically just Polish food, not that there's anything basic about Polish food, but it is in Krakow. Consistently good reviews for this fairly priced spot. New-comers should take note of the calming, tranquil environment as well as the friendly service. Your best bet here is probably to have a salad, soup or the traditional polish stuffed dumplings and a good wine or cold beer (if you drink of course). Lunch and dinner are available. Perhaps not the best venue for big groups, so be warned if you're having a party.

Miód Malina

Miod Malina also has quite an extensive menu. Were it to be categorized, it probably could not be, but the main influences seem to come from Poland, France, and Italy.

This venue is appealing to all possible demographics as it has both a full bar and a child's menu.

Recommendations would include one of the traditional Polish stuffed dumplings, and an order of the fresh bruschetta as a start; lots of drinks like draft beer, good wine, and ice cold vodka to choose from.
